- (3) Short Codes are categorised as follows:
 - (a) Emergency and Public Services;
 - (b) Licensee Services;
 - (c) Network Access; and
 - (d) Commercial Services
- (4) All licensees are required to route Emergency and Public Service short codes dialled by their customers to the correct terminating point without charge to the customer. Where the call is routed via a second or subsequent network, no interconnection charges will be payable between the licensees as per the Standard Licence Conditions.
- (5) Network access codes may only be used for inter-network routing purposes and the use of the codes does not change any Interconnection payment arrangements.

- (6) Where a licensee introduces voice and/or SMS Licensee Service that is the same or similar to another licensee's existing voice and / or SMS Licensee Service ,they shall use the Short Code already in use by the latter licensee.
- (7) Licensees may enter into commercial agreements with other licensees to provide the Licensee Service on their behalf. Such agreements will be deemed to be 'on-net', the call may be routed to the second licensee's network. The costs and payments associated with the call routing and termination are subject to the Standard Licence Conditions.

Signalling Point Codes (SPCs)

9. (1) The Authority shall manage the International Signalling Point Codes (ISPCs) utilising the Signalling Area/Network Codes (SANCs) allocated to Namibia by the Telecommunication Standardization Bureau of the International Telecommunications Union (ITU / TSB) in accordance with ITU-T Recommendations. The Authority will adopt the procedures specified by the ITU / TSB from time to time in Recommendation Q.708 or its successor recommendation(s).
- (2) A Signalling Point must have a Signalling Point Code from each signalling network to which it is connected. An international gateway will have both an ISPC and a NSPC.
- (3) No Signalling Point shall have more than one Signalling Point Code from the signalling network to which it is a member. Only one ISPC and / or one NSPC per Signalling Point shall be allowed.
- (4) A 14-bit code shall be used for the identification of signalling points in conformance with the ITU-T Recommendations.
- (5) The format of the 14-bit binary code used for the identification of international signalling points shall be:

The binary code is represented by three (3) decimal numbers indicated as follows:

- a) The first indicating the three (3) most significant bits (NML), with a value of 0 to 7;
- b) The second indicating the following eight (8) bits (K-D), with a value of 0 to 255; and
- c) The third consisting of the three (3) least significant bits (CBA), with a value of 0 to 7.

The combination of the fields containing bits NML and bits K-D is regarded as the Signalling Area/Network Code (SANC). The three (3) bits (CBA) identify a specific signalling point which when combined with the SANC forms the 14-bit ISPC (e.g. 2-068-1).

- (6) ITU / TSB have allocated 2-SANC to Namibia. These are 5-072-X and 6-098X. No other SANC shall be used by Licensees unless the Authority has applied for it to the ITU/TSB and Namibia has been allocated SANCs from the ITU / TSB.
- (7) ISPCs will be assigned to licensees using the next available code using the CBA bits, on a 'first-come first-served' basis.
- (8) The format of the 14-bit binary code used for the identification of national signalling points shall be:

A single decimal number represents the binary code, which always consists of 4-digits, 1000 to 9999.

- (9) NSPCs will be assigned to licensees using the next available code on a 'first-come first-served' basis.

Network Codes

10. (1) A Licensee may use any scheme of network codes within their individual networks in accordance with ITU-T Recommendations provided such codes are used internally and are not used for public use or used for inter-network purposes, including identifying a signalling point between networks.
- (2) These Codes shall include Mobile Network Codes (recommendation E.212), Data Network Identification Codes (Recommendation X.121) and System identification codes (various TIA wireless standards including IS-2000 'cdma2000').
- (3) When the ownership of a network changes and the new owner has an existing network code for that type of network, the Licensee shall inform the Authority and relinquish one of the codes.
